

CALL FOR OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH CONFERENCE PAPERS 2019

The National Social Security Authority (NSSA), Occupational Safety and Health (OSH) Division is organising a Safety and Health at Work (SHAW) Conference to be held from 2 - 4 October 2019, anchored on the following main theme:

“THE FUTURE OF WORK: TOWARDS VISION ZERO”

In this regard, NSSA is pleased to announce the call for occupational safety and health papers for this very important conference which brings together government, employers, labour unions, workers, OSH practitioners, policy and decision makers, researchers, risk and production managers etc, to discuss and share experiences on occupational accidents, injuries and disease prevention. The conference request for contributions of abstracts and papers that address the main theme and subthemes as indicated below. We now call for abstracts/summary papers covering any of the following sub-themes of the conference:

1. Promoting Decent Work
2. OSH Tools for Zero Harm
3. Zero Harm in the Transport and Energy Sector
4. Towards Zero Harm in the Agriculture Sector
5. Technology, Jobs and the Future of Work
6. Wellness Programmes: Optional or a must.

NB: The theme and subthemes are not necessarily research/conference topics in themselves. They are guidelines on areas in which papers for presentation can be submitted. Therefore authors must indicate under which subtheme their conference paper/research topic falls under.

The length of the summary/abstract of the paper should not be more than 300 words excluding title of the paper, keywords and abridged references. Summary of paper/abstracts must be written in English, Times New Roman font size 12, and everything should fit on 1, A4 page. Author(s) must clearly state their name(s), organisation and contact phone numbers. Indicate only 4 keywords above introduction. The following is the general format of the research abstract: Introduction, Methodology, Results, Discussion and Conclusion.
